ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

OBSERVANCE BY LOYAL CELTS IN LOS ANGELES.

The celebration of St. Patrick day in is city, versions, was heartly carried at by the loyal sons of Erin. The processon started at twenty minutes before 2, and I did not believe the use of such means good policy.

"Bul I say today, in the light of what has since transpired, of the means which England has attempted to use, of what has taken place in Ireland and of what may yet occur, if the Queen's late speech sets forth what is to be the policy of England—then I say "Let alip the dogs of war." [Cheers and applause.]

"This message declares that the only remedy for the state of affairs now existing in Ireland is to revise the criminal code and then enforce its revised articles—in other words, the odious coercion we have fought so long. If this is to be England's policy, I say let Irish money, Irish brains, and Irish arms in America also, if necessary, go forth for the defense of beloved Ireland. [Great applause.]

"The celebration of St. Patrick's Day has a two-fold significance in a political way." Upon all God's footstool there is no nation ther programme."

Music by the band followed, after which Mrs. Josie M. Sullivan sang "The Little Shamrock." In response to an enthusiastic encore she sang an Irish medley. The orator of the day, S. F. Spencer, was then introduced and delivered the following introduced and delivered the following oration.

S. F. SPENCER'S GRATION.

On the eve of the great feast of Easter, fourteen centuries ago, the lingering rays of the declining sun lit up a scene of most unwonted splendor. Most beautiful and imposing on that day was the aspect of the royal hill of Tara, for Leary, the monarch of Erin, was celebrating with regal magnificence the anniversary of his birth. From far and near the magnates and princes of the land had assembled to do him honor, and at the sunset hour the great banquethall of Tara was thronged with noisy revelers, from the King, surrounded by his princes and Dread edicates to forcessome of the slope of the slands, of the slope of the slope of the slope of the slope of the clank of the slope of slope of the clank of the slope of the clank of the slope of slope of the clank of the of the c

As oft as on that evening fell
As oft as on that evening fell
When last I saw thy lorely isle."

It is not necessary that imagination's penell should paint the scenes of parting and of sorrow. They are all stamped where they will remain forever upon the living canvas of Irish hearts, and even at this distance of time memories of the bitter cruelty crowding back upon the Irish mind will steep its bueyant spirits in a spell of mournful recollections. But never, amid all her desolution, has the true son of Erin forgotten the faith of his fathers; never has he failed upon this day to do reverence to the memory of his patron saint; never has he ceased to hope for the future deliverance of his country, And though the gloom of night has long overshadowed her lakes, her hills, and her plains—though Grattan and Curram and O'Connell are dead, and dying bequeathed the legacy of their heroic deeds to us all—though despair has almost settled over the island "full many a time and oft," the morning sun rays seem breaking at last through the clouds of night, and all that her martyred heroes labored for so long in vain seems' almost achieved by the splendid courage and genius of Charles Stewart Paranell. It is right that on this day, sacred to the memory of every true Irishman, we should declare to the world that the virtue which gave to the particular of the departed heroes of Ireland its dazzling luster is still alive. It has its temple in every clime. It has its though it is not the departed heroes of Ireland its dazzling luster is still alive. It has its temple in every clime. It has its to be proved to the morning in the light of the morning which five centuries since pierced the white eag gees down, a chain of mes, in the deep red light of which the eagle spreads his wings and holds his glddy revelry, proclaims the glory of the chief whose blood has made his native land a sainted spot in Europe." It is this spirit which inspires us to venerate the names of the illustrious dead of Ireland, and joining in this veneration wherever he goes, the true son of Erin has the faith and the duties of patriotism.

The world is beginning to learn at last that the cause of Ireland is just because she asks only justice. In every clime and under every flag there is a class of people who view the public affairs of nations with impartial and generous eye—a class whose sympathies prove the poet more of a philocopher than a dreamer, when he said: "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin"—a class whose hearts burn with findignation as intense, whether standing beneath the scaffold of Emmett, or kneeling above the grave of Marshal Ney—a class who feel for the oppressed of earth, whether the sigh of the unfortunate is wafted from the shores of the Indian Ocean or heard in the clank of chains on the banks of the Danube, or comes from where Shannon's silvery floods give back those lovely Irish landscapes whose beauty seems like vistas stretching from the very foothills of heaven.

United as we are upon this memorable day, the world will look on and admire that zeal and devotion to a faith which the Irish people have nursed to their hearts for fourteen hundred years, and which they will cling to and cherish "as long as rivers run to the sea." On the hills of Erin today, the poor applause of the audience. Mr. Kerwin of the Sullivan Company sang "Wearing of the Green," and as an encore, "The Emblem of Ireland."

President Daly made a few appropriate elosing remarks, and the celebrants adjourned. Later, refreshments were provided at the Ancient Order of Hibernian's Hall in Downey block where all enjoyed an hour of pleasure.

Hod-carriers' Union No. 1 gave its first annual ball last pight at Turnverein Hall. About sixty couples were present, and a general good time was had. The programme consisted of eighteen dances and four extras, and dancing was kept up until an early hour this morning. Following are the various committees: Arrangements—Ed Roche, W. L. Burke, C. HORACE BELL. ORE FUN IN THE ALLEGED CRIMINAL LIBEL SUIT.

Yesterday morning, at 9:30 o'clock, Just-lee Taney's court-room was well filled when the libel case of the People vs. Wells Thornton and Stephens, on preliminary, was called. Before taking the stand Horand asked to be allowed to address court. "I would like to have the after wish to call your after and asked to be allowed to address the court. "I would like to have the attention of the court. I wish to call your attention to the Tribune and Express. The reporters of those two papers have misrepresented and garbled the testimony. Your Honor must see that the reporters are giving garbled reports, especially in regard to the evidence of the witness Walker, whose testimony has been changed. They have misrepresented him in several instances. Your Honor can exclude them from the room or fine them for contempt of court."

The Court. "The reporters will report the evidence correctly. Go on with the case."

The cross-examination of Bell was not continued, for the reason that the defense did not have the files of the Porcupine, on which they wisked to examine the witness. Counsel for detense stated to the court that the papers were then at the express office, and would ask to recall witness as soon as the papers arrived. The prosecution objected to Bell's leaving the stand and them being recalled. This brought forth quite an argument, and the witness was finally allowed to stand aside until the defense should be ready to examine him.

should be ready to examine him.

A. J. KING

testified: I know the defendant. I have seen a copy like this (a copy of 'the pamphlet, "Life of Horace Bell," marked "A".) Capt. Thornton gave it to me. Col. Wells was with Thornton, but he did not stop. He walked on a few steps and waited for Thornton. I have known Bell for thirty-five years. I have been friendly with the family ever since the family came out here, in 1865. The relations between Maj. Bell and his family have always been pleasant. I never knew him (Bell) to be unkind to his wife. Never knew of his wife being in the Stockton or any other asylum. His children and mine were raised together. Col. Wells was excited, when. Capt. Thornton handed me the pamphlet. I didn't kear him say anything, but he laughed. He was facing me. I saw him hand one to Dan Kevane. I know that Mrs. Bell went away because of mental derangement, but I only know the cause from hearsay.

Cross-examined: Visited the Bell family frequently. During the time of her illness, after the birth of her second son, I did not visit the family. Our families went on a picnic together shortly before that time.

testified: Have known the Bell family during the past thirty years. I do not know about the relations existing between Bell and his family. I did not know Dr. Trainor of Alameda, but I know the place kept by him. I know of the place because a friend of mine told me about the place, and at the time his wife was sick I told him about the place. Mrs. Bell went to the city, but I do not know whether Bell went with her. It was an insane asylum. I know that it was a place of that kind because I went there with a friend of, mine who wished to place his wife in the establishment. Maj. Bell came to me and told me that his wife was crazy. I told him for gracious sake not to take her to Stockton, for it would come very hard on his children. I then told him about the private asylum in Alameda. I told him that the lady friend of mine in San Francisco who was sent there was sent because she went crazy on money matters.

Bell-here took charge of the witness, and asked him if he (the witness) did not inform him that the San Francisco lady was taken to the Trainor place because her milk was dried up.

handed me the pumphlet, he said he was destributing Bell's life. While we were talking Bell came up and asked what we were laughing about I told him and his son asked me for the copy. I gave it to him and have not seen it since.

testified that 'he a printer, and works in the Progress office. When he was questioned about the pamphlet he refused to reply on the grounds that his, testimony might tend to criminate him. The prosecution insisted on his answering the question, and an argument followed. The District Attorney finally withdrew the question.

testified: I first saw the pamphlet at the Nadeau House. I don't know how it came to be there. I don't think the copies I saw came through the mail. I saw one in the room occupied by the Grand Army delegate; I had a conversation with Wells about the 23d of February. He said the men who issued the circular were in the city and were prepared to prove the facts in the pamphlet. I told him that when a man was attacked he should have the right to defend himself. There was a general conversation, but that is the only portion that made an impression on me. A gentleman from San Francisco handed me one on the evening before it made its appearance in the G. A. R. Hall. I don't know whether it was circulated in the night or not. I have had no conversation with Wells since. Never saw Thornton with one.

Cross-examined: Witness told how the matter was brought before the Encampment by Bell. That was on the 23d. Took an active part in the affair. He was not a candidate before the convention. They would not allow Bell to point out the men who circulated the pamphlet. At 11:30 the court took a recess until 1:30.

who testified: Know Capt. Thornton. Heard Thornton say something about publishing a pamphlet. It was shortly after Bell and Thornton had some trouble. Saw Thornton talking, and heard some one say to Thornton that Bell was nothing but a sergeant. I stepped up to hear what they were talking about. S. LOZARE testified: I am acquainted with Horace Bell.
Have known him since '52. I know his wife and some of his children by sight. I never knew him to be unkind to his family. I recollect the time when he took his wife to San Francisco. I went up on the steamer.
I did not see much of Mrs. Bell on the boat.
Bell never told me what alled her.
Cross-examined: I saw her before she went on the steamer. I don't know how he treated her. I saw them at the depot. I don't remember whether she was carried on a bed or walked. I don't know whether any one else was with them or not.
The attorneys for the prosecution then continued the argument against bringing the files of the Porcupine into court. They were willing to produce the documents if the defense would show what particular point they wished to make, or why they wanted the papers in question. "If they will designate a paper," said attorney for prosecution, "and state what it contains, we will bring that paper into this court, but we are not willing to do so now." After an hour's argument pro and con, the Court refused to have the files brought into court unless the defendants would state what they proposed minutes.

After recess attorney for defense moved the discharge of the three defendants, on the ground that the prosecution had failed to make out a case against the defendants, and especially against defendant Wells.

"They have not snown when Col. Wells had anything to do with the distribution of the pamphlets," said Mr. Dameron. "There "They have not shown when Col. Wells had anything to do with the distribution of the pamphlets," said Mr. Dameron. "There is no proof to show that he had anything whatever to do with the documents. There is no evidence to show that B. A. Stephens had anything to do with the distribution of these pamphlets. There is no evidence to show that Stephens had anything to do with the pamphlet except on the testimony of one witness, a printer, who said that the pamphlet was set up in Stephens's job office, but it is not shown that he had anything to do with the writing of the article. He had a right to print a job which might have been sent to him. There is nothing to show that Thornton circulated the pamphlet, except that he gave out one or two copies to friends of his. He had a right to believe that Bell was a candidate before the Grand Army convention, and Thornton had the right to let the visitors know what kind of a man Bell was." The Court granted the motion as to Col. Wells, but held Stephens and Thornton to answer before the Superior Court. Attorneys for the defense stated that they had no evidence to introduce. Ball was fixed at $1000 each, but before bonds were given the defendants swore out a writ of habeas corpus, returnable before Judge Brunson Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, and the defendants were allowed to depart. Col. Wells, on a second charge, was permitted to go on his own recognizance. On the second charge, Thornton and Stephens were arraigned, pleaded not guilty, and their examination was set for the 31st inst., at 10 o'clock am.

DBefore Stephens left the courtroom a warrant, sworn to by Horace Bell, was served on him, and he was placed under arrest. The complaint charges that on last Thursday, March 10th, the Pomona Progress contained the following words: "It was a common report, at the time his wife went erazy, that it was just subsequent to confinement, she discovered him in flagrant." ANOTHER INQUEST.

In the evening, at the same place, an inquest was held on the body of B. W. Sullivan, who died yesterday at No. 33 North Los Angeles street. The testimony of Mary Dupty, who keeps the lodging-house there, of William Best, who lodges at the same place, and of Health Officer Hagan, developed the fact that the man had been drinking heavily for some days past, and that Monday morning he was brought to his lodging-house in a state of drunken unconsclousness. Tuesday morning he started in again as soon as he could walk, and Tuesday afternoon was taken again to the bed which he never left alive. He was aged about 55 years, and the verdict was, "Congestion of the brain, superinduced by excessive drinking."

S. R. Williams, of San Diego, departed for home last evening, after spending the best part of two days in this city, hunting for a lost boy. Sidney Holland, a lad be-tween 15 and 16 years of age, arrived here three weeks ago from his home in Henry county, Mo. On his arrival here he wrote to his parents of the fast since which time to his parents of the fact, since which time nothing has been heard from him. He has two cousins here, whom he expected to visit, but they have seen nothing of him. His parents are getting very anxious about him, and have written to him here, but the letters have not been called for. It is rather singular that he has disappeared so completely as he has done, though, of course, he may still be all right somewhere.

News Notes from the Crown of the Valley.

[Pasadena Star, March 16.]

W. L. Carter sold 134 feet at the northwest corner of Colorado and Madison for $100 a foot—a profit of $3400 in one day.

The public is to be afflicted with a new trial of the Perkins-Baldwin case. The People pay court expenses.

The San Gabriel Valley Bank building is fast nearing completion. The cornices will soon be set, but the entire building will probably not be ready for occupancy for a month yet.

Lots on Colorado as far east as Madison avenue have reached $100 a foot. This is in accord with what we said yesterday regarding the growing demand for choice residence lots.

The mechanical department of the Star will soon be removed from the Mills block to the Lindsay property, on Raymond avenue, but the editorial and business rooms will remain where they are. This change is made necessary by the rapid increase in business. The coming of the baby Star made it necessary to have more room than present quarters afford. All business contracts, etc., will continue to be made at the old stand.

The rooms of the public library are being remodeled and the books removed into the librarian's room, leaving nothing but papers, magazines, etc., in the old reading-room. It is a good change, and will doubtless enable the librarian to keep better track of the books. Some people make a habit of going to the shelves for free reading from morning to night, 365 days in the year, including Sundays. The library can't live on sunshine.

As Diego were invited over to the many sam Diego were invited over to the many same description of the invited guests from San Diego was Charley Vanvoris, a pale, sim young fellow, upon whom disease and dissipation had left their marks. During one of the intervals for drinks a brawny sailor from the Bonita quarreled with him. The trouble culminated in blows, and Vanvoris drew a pistol and struck the sailor on the neck with it, and eyewitnesses claim that the pistol was accidentally discharged. The ball entered the neck and passed out behind the shoulder, making only a slight wound. Vanvoris, however, became frightened, and left, probably going over the line into Mexico. The sailor was out on the street today again, drinking heavily, but declined to swear out a warrant on being approached by the Sheriff, saying he was to blame for the trouble.

A new form of amusement has been inaugurated in this city, called the Hugging Club, and the modus operandi is as follows: The ladies are all masked and the gentlemen are allowed to hug them for fifteen cents, after which they unmask. This has been kept very secret for a long time, but a reporter of the Gazette caught on yesterday, through the indignation of a husband, who had attended one of the hugging matches and had paid fifteen cents for the privilege of hugging his own wife. He says he will never take in one of those new-fangled affairs again.

WHAWKER'S" CLOSE OR CISM OF THE NEW LAW.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—Col. J.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—Col. J.
H. Woodard, general agent of the Wabash Railway for the Facific Coast, use written the following letter:
Mr. James Smith, Gen't Traffic Manager,
W., St. L. and W. Ry., St. Louis, Mo.—
DRAR SRE:—I have yours of the 5th nst., in which you say that you have seen giving the Interstate Commerce aw a great deal of thought recently.
I, too, have given it some thought and here are my conclusions:
The law is unconstitutional. Secion 8 of the Federal Constitution enumerating the powers granted to merating the powers granted to gress) provides: "(3rd) That Con-s shall have power to regulate merce with foreign nations, and ing the several States and with the is provision, so far as it relates to the ates, was interded in the provent them the imposing import and export duties the products of the several States. Section 9, which defines the powers in the province ports of one State over those of more there, nor shall vessels bound to or om one State be obliged to enter, ear or pay duties in another."

This is a clear negative of the powers ranted to Congress and is quoted to now what the framers of the Constitujus on meant by the regulation of commerce.

Section 10 of the Constitution, enum-rating the powers denied the States, rovides that "No State shall, without crating the powers denied the States, provides that "No State shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any State on imports or exports shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States."

Webster defines "commerce" to be "the exchange of merchandise on a large scale between different places or communities; extended trade or traffic." He also defines "transportation" to mean "the act of transporting, carrying from one place to another; removal; conveyance." The words "traffic" and "trade" are defined by the same authority to mean "commerce." Clause 18 of Section 8 of the Constitution provides that Congress shall have power "to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers" (the regulation of commerce, etc.).

While it is clear that Congress has the power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, it cannot be pretended that any greater power is conferred by the Constitution over interstate commerce than is given over commerce with foreign nations. The most strained construction of the Constitution will not allow that there are any degrees of authority given by clause 3 of section 8.

Congress has exercised its authority by enacting the tariff, or import-tax law on the commerce with foreign nations. But no one will claim that Congress has any power to regulate the transportation charges on the commerce between the United States and foreign reconstricts.

gress has any power transportation charges on the commerce between the United States and foreign zens and those of a foreign nation, or between its citizens and those of other States. This point was distinctly settled only a few days ago by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Tennessee "drummers" case, where it held that atax (or license on traveling salesmen) was an impediment to commerce, and a tax thereon which the States have no nower to implicate the states have no nower to im-which the States have no power to impose.

No sane man will pretend that Congress has the power to fix the prices which any person or corporation shall charge for services rendered or articles furnished between the people of two or more States, or that it has the power to fix, regulate or in any way control the price which may be put upon any article or service rendered or sold to any person or persons in different States. This assumption of nearly similar power on the part of Congress, in the passage of the Interstate Commerce Law, is so extraordinary that I can see only one reason why so many railway attorneys have decided that it is a law, and that it is that the great railways, while pretending otherwise, really desired the passage of such a law to protect them against each other, and also to give them a legal pretext for cinching the public.

The courts have settled the rule of comits that all common carrier corpor-ing the public.

The courts have settled the rule of equity that all common carrier corporations are bound to render to every person or firm, company, corporation or locality, under similar circumstances and conditions, the same service for substantially the same consideration; in other words, there shall be no unjust discrimination on the part of carrier corporations. Should they practice unjust discriminations, there is but one just remedy, and that is afforded by a court of equity. Congress might have the power to erect a court which would have special jurisdiction over such cases, but such a court could not be given any powers beyond those which are now exercised by the courts of the United States and the courts of the several States.

But even if we should admit, for the

But even if we should admit, for the sake of argument, that Congress has power to regulate or control the transportation charges of interstate commerce, the question at once arises, how can it do it? The only answer is, by the enactment of a law to that effect. Has Congress done this by enacting the gress has any power to regulate the transportation charges on the commerce between the United States and foreign as it has been done between the United States, and to provide means for its collection, there can be no doubt, just as it has been done between the United States and foreign nations; but it has no authority under the Constitution to canact any law which shall, in any way, attempt to regulate or control the transportation charges between the United States and foreign nations, or between the several States. Nor has any state the power to impose a tax or between its citizens and those of a foreign nation, or between its citizens and those of other way can the business be regulated. For the transportation of freight, the law provides that railways may establish any rate they please, so long as the rate is reasonable and just. Every railway manager knows, that through or competition rates, place the compensation far below a reasonable and just. Every railway manager knows, that through or competition for the compensation for the compensation of the business be regulated.

For the transportation of freight, the law provides that railways may establish any rate they please, so long as the rate is reasonable and just. Every railway manager knows, that through or competition rates, place the compensation for set below a reasonable and just. Every railway manager knows, that through or competition for the compensation for the sation far below a reasonable and just. Every railway manager knows, that through or competition for the compensation for the compensation for the compensation for the compensation or the compensation of the compensation for the compensat sum the lowa lines received 34 cents per hundred for freight hauled from Kansas City and Omaha to Chicago; $8 and 38 cents per car of 25,000 pounds for a haul of over 500 miles. When I Kansas City and Omaha to Chicago; $8 and 38 cents per car of 25,000 pounds for a haul of over 500 miles. When I telegraphed you for authority to refuse freights at such rates, you replied that we could not go out of business because a competitive rate war had cut the compensation down to less than cost, for we did, the current of trade would go from us, and when rates were restored, we could not get it back except at a greater cost than would be our loss if we remained in the business. I wrote you that such a course might be good common carrier logic, but very poor business common sense. But I now know that you was right. I then took the view the public does of such cases—that if the lines wanting a rate war were permitted to do all the business at such rates they would soon ruin themselves, but I did not look ahead (any more than does the general public) to the fact that a railway once built, cannot be destroyed at all. It may go into the hands of a receiver, and the receiver will go on operating it as a free gift, a thing which costs him nothing, and if it don't earn enough to carry it on he has power to plunge it jnto any depth of debt. Receivers of railways under the later legislation of the Supreme Court of the United States are not appointed to pay debts and wind up the affairs of bankrupt companies. They are appointed as a agents of the court to "run" or operate the property as long "as the court sees if to retain them." So said Judge Drummond in the O. & M. case, and he is regarded as the great railway judge of the country. So your view of the case was the correct one. The rate war had originated entirely outside of, and apart from, the Wabash Railway, but that road had to join in the war, though not allied in any way to either of the original waring lines, and suffer with the mocause it could not withdraw from business. Other railway managers, and drawn mainly by their paid attorneys, whether in or out of the Senate I don't pretend to guess. And when the vote on it came up, the few railway presidents i fact can be shown that the ocean fixes the rates to the Pacific Coast, the commission will have to give its consent to charging as much or more to the interior west of the Missouri River than is charged for a like service through to the Pacific Coast.

Again, there should be a difference between east and west-bound rates, not that it will appear on the face of the tariff sheets, but because the commodities which constitute the bulk of east-bound freights are never shipped westward. All the grain, cattle and farm products go east. But how? Practically, all that is produced west of Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans is consigned to these points, warehoused there, and then reshipped to the East. There is never any continuity of shipment from the West beyond these points. Even livestock passes into the stockyards at those places and is sold to new owners, who ship it on to the East.

West-bound freights are merchandise, and the trunk-line rates to Chicago are made by adding together the trunk-line locals, between the different distributing points between New York and Chicago. This full trunk-line rate will average higher than the local rates on similar service, for the "special rates," which are given to every local shipper, are lower than the proportions which the same roads would receive on through or competitive business, if they receive trunk-line tariff rates.

All rate-cutting is not done openly—in fact, there is never a time but some which the same roads would receive on through or competitive business, if they receive trunk-line tariff rates.

All rate-cutting is not done openly—in fact, there is never a time but some lines are carrying traffic for less than published rates. This is done for the purpose of getting additional business. But as soon as an unusual current of business turns to one line, all of its competitors assume that it is shaving the rate, and if they are powerless to stop it by law, they try to get it back by shaving still deeper. It should be borne in mind that the men who operate rail-ways are not, as a general thing, the men who own them; hence, they have little dread of losing money in a rate war. If the railway managers are kept within bounds as to rate wars by the Interstate Commerce Law, and base their charges on a reasonable and just rate by the shortest line, they will all be rich enough.

If the new law is obeyed rate wars are a thing of the past. Even new and weak lines will have a fair show. The Missouri Pacific and Atchison, which have built hundreds of miles of road in Kansas within the past year, will be protected by law against each other, and the people of the State will have the benefit of reasonably uniform rates which will pay handsome dividends on the costs of the roads. Californians will have no higher rates to pay on through freights than they did before the recent war: in a fact not so high, while for local rates, they will have to look to their own rail-road commission, a body which has always stood "like a stone wall" be tween the people and the "grinding monopoly." what is Medical Inhalation Before stating briefly what Medical Inhalation Before stating briefly what Medical Inhalation is, we propose, in as few words as possible, to state clearly what it is not.

Accional Inhalation is not a cure-all, a non-turn, or a pansoca. It is not a specific Remedy for any disease. It is not a quack medicine, advertised to cure any or all the ills that fresh is helf to, and intended to fill the pockets of its proprietors. of its proprietors. It is not a talisman, whose possession insures health to its possession, without the intervention of either sense or judgment. Medical Inhalation is none of these things.

Medical Inhalation is simply and solely a methed of taking medicines by inhaling or breathing them into the lungs, instead of swallowing them into the stomach. By Inhalation, the proper medicines are applied directly to the seat of the disease, in the nose, throat or lungs; and it is clear to every reasoning person how peculiarly applicable Inhalation is in the disorders of the organs named. If you have scalded or burned the surface of the body, or wounded any limb or member, you do not swallow the remedy intended to heal the disorganized tissue. On the contrary, you apply it directly to the seat of the wound or injury. Why, then, when suffering from catarrir of the nasal passages or throat, or afflicted with ulceration of the lungs, should you rely on medicines taken into the stomach? Medical inhalation not only applies the proper healing remedies to the seat of the disease, but it applies the remedy in the gaseous or vaporous form, in which form, as is well known, medicines act most powerfully. How much greater, for example, is the effect of a drachm of chloroform, when inhaled or breathed, than many times the quantity when swallowed into the stomach. The same is true of claces. By inhalation the any other studies. By inhalation the any other studies are the stomach, and thence the wandering through the system in search of a malady, which may be mainly or entirely a local one; but by this method the proper remedy is applied directly to the diseased organ. Who, after studying the anatomy of the lungs, can doubt that in inflammation, and ulceration of the healing medicine by inhalation to the diseased parts, is the correct and rational method of treatment? Who, on the other hand, can be so irrational as to believe that the proper and direct way to reach the diseased surfaces of the anatomy, of the same siructure as that wh

The Interstate Commerce Law,

In another part of today's Traces will be found a long, clear, incisive and able opinion upon the new Interstate Comnerce law, contained in a letter writ ten by Col. J. H. Woodard (Jayhawker), of San Francisco. This letter is published first, and exclusively, in this paper, and is a notable contrib ntion to that side of the question, which is op posed to that held by THE TIMES. Col. Woodard maintains, with not a little ingenuity, that the law is unconstitutional; that it was framed in the interest of the railroads, and is generally favored by railroad men, one of whom he is himself, he being the general agent on this coast of the Wabash line. This view, however, has some notable exceptions Senator Stanford and his ssociates in the Pacific Railroads being among the opponents of the iaw. The letter will attract deserved attention among students of this important problem of interstate commerce and the regulation thereof-one of the most profound questions of the times.

The Fiftieth Congress.

The new Senators, not including nembers of the present Senate have been reëlected, are George Hearst of California; J. J. Finley, Florida; Charles B. Daniel, Virginia, and Daniel B. Lucas, West Virginia. Political changes have occurred in California, Indiana and New Jersey from Republicans to Democrats, and in Nevada from a Democrat to a Republican. The Senate which closes its session today is composed of 42 Republicans and 34 Democrats. As newly constituted, it will consist of 39 Republicans and 37 Democrats.

In the next House of Representatives 130 of the 325 will be new members, and of these 70 are Democrats, 56 Republicans and 4 Independents. Politically classified the House will stand: Democrats, 169; Republicans, 152; Independents, 4. Of the eight Territorial Delegates there are 4 Democrats, 3 Republicans and 1 Mormon.

Ir looks a little queer, remarks a contemporary, to see the cablegrams from Europe which tell of the great doings in the German Parliament, of the struggles about home rule in Ire-land, of the defeat and death of the Bulgarian traitors, and of the deadly mminence of war between Russia and Austria, mixed up with minute details of the expected début upon the stage of Mrs. James Brown Potter, of the contrac she has made with the Haymarket Theater, of the salary she will get, of the character she intends to represent ("Annie Sylvester" in Wilkie Collins's Man and Wife), and of the dresses she intends to wear. It is not "queer" at all; it is just "enterprising"—pure, un-adulterated enterprise of the New York Herald stamp, cabled to that Anglo-phobiated journal and hurried across the continent by telegraph to young Mr. Hearst's paper in San Francisco. The world keeps right on the even tenor of its way even when a great European war is imminent; but when there is no cablegram about Mrs. James Potter Brown's—or Brown stands still, with mouth open and one

Sherman recently at a public dinner, and complimented the latter by saying he (Trenholm) was glad Sherman made he (Trenholm) was glad Sherman made the march to the sea; whereupon the Augusta Chronicle, Aiken Recorder and other southern sheets pitch head-long into Trenholm, style him "a lick-spittle," and declare his political career ended. The Recorder styles Sherman "the inveterate liar and notorious inendiary, the man who made war like a thief and a coward," and so on for quantity. Such is the "New South" of he gushing Grady. There is a New almost exactly in number the same as South springing up, but it will keep Los Angeles had seven years ago step to the music of the Union and of Bourbon variety—"must go."

EVERY intelligent citizen will applaud the decisive action of the Health Officer in the matter of general vaccination, and the solidity with which the Mayor is backing him up. While all things earthly are fallible, the vast value of vaccination has become so fully demonstrated by the world's experience that intelligent people accept it as an axiom. An ounce of prevention in this case is better than several tons of cure, and those who are so ignorant or so selfish as to disregard the welfare of the com-munity should be made to come to taw—as they will be. With such pre-cautions, taken thus betimes, a small-pox epidemic will be absolutely im-possible here.

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.), March 17.—
[Special.] Late intelligence from Lordsburg, near the Mexican line, brings the welcome news of the capture and lynching of the desperado "One-ear" Dodge. For some time past the southern portion of the Territory has been infested with a gang of horsethleves and murderous desperadoes, who have made life and property very unsafe outside of the settled communities. Chief among this gang is one William Dodge, who is fond of calling himself a "bad man," and always exacted a big measures of respect from the timid strangers, often compelling them to address him as "Mr." Dodge, at the muzzle of his pistol, and then forcing them to invite him to a take drink. Something over a year ago he tried this little pleasantry on a cowboy, who deliberately drew his "toothpick" and lopped off one of Dodge's ears, thus giving him his name of "one-ear."

Dodge having been suspected of being an accomplice of a gang of Mexican horsethleves who have been running off a lot of stock across the line into Mexico, a close watch has been kept on his movements, and a night or two since, he was seen to pass Clayton ranch, just this side of the line, with three stolen horses. The news of his capture was sent out to all the ranchers on both sides of the line that had suffered from the visitations of this desperado and his gang, and yesterday Judge Lynch organized his court on Mexican territory, and after a fair and impartial trial "One-san" Dodge was hanged by the neck until dead, and his body was left hanging as a warning to evildoers and food for the beasts and birds of prey.

Triple Murder—Judge Lynch Likely to Try the Case.

GALVESTON (Tex.), March 17.—|By the Associated Press.] A special from San Antonio to the News says: "A triple murder was committed this afternoon, at a railroad camp, on the morthwestern extension of the San Antonio and Aransas Passroad, fourteen miles beyond Bourne. Henry Madison, a wellknown stockman and contractor of this city, employed a number of men and teams.
One of the laborers mamed William Stone went to Madison and asked him for some money, and was fold that he could not get any until Saturday. Stone became enraged and said that he would have either money or blood, and without further provoeation pulled a revolver and fired, killing Madison instantly. Two Mexicans in the camp, who had witnessed the shooting, ran up and attempted to arrest the murderer, whereupon Stone shot and killed both of them outright. The killing is pronounced most cold-blooded, and the prospects are that if Stone is caught he will be lynched.

The Coronet Leading the Dauntless in the Ocean Race, PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—[By the Associated Press.] Capt. Newell, of the steamer British Prince, from Liverpool, makes the following report: "On Monday, the 14th, at 9:15 a.m., in lat. 40 deg. 1 min., long 64 deg. 1 min., paged as the present and the state of the 14th, at 9:15 a.m., in lat. 40 deg. 1 min., long. 64 deg. 1 min., passed a schooner yacht seven miles to the northward. At 10:10 a.m. the schooner yacht Dauntless displayed her signals abeam, in lat. 39 deg. 55 min., long. 64 deg. 18 min. There was a strong breeze, and she had all her canvas set. Every stitch of canvas was being used on both boats. There was, at the time the yachts were sighted, a strong breeze blowing from west to northwest. They were about 22 miles apart." This would indicate that the yachts are taking a more southerly course than that pursued by transatlantic steamships at this season. When the observation was made, the Coronet had made about 600 geographical miles, and the Dauntless rabout 589 miles. Though the Coronet was 11 miles further to the eastward, she is, on account of her more northerly position, more than this number of miles in advance of the Dauntless.

Heavy Losers by His Adroit Game of Grab.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, March 17.— [By the Associated Press.] Sheriff Grant has seized the place of business of Walter E. Lawton, 31 Broadway, who did business under the firm name of Lawton Bros., dealers in fertilizers, under attachments from Judge Donohue, of the Supreme Court, on creditors' claims contest the firm amounting to $275,000. It

Lawton is said to have absconded with the proceeds of the discounted notes.

A number of banks were reported to be heavy losers through negotiation of Lawton's paper. Among them are the First and Third National banks, the Bank of the Republic and the Chemical Bank. The president of the First National Bank denied that the bank had handled any of Lawton's paper. The American Exchange National Bank, which was reported 'as heavy loser, would not affirm or deny the report. The president of the Third National Bank says that his institution holds but a very small amount, which is secured by a good indorser. Just before leaving the city Lawton drew from the Third National Bank, on checks, $13,000.

The disappearance of Lawton has created a great deal of apprehension, and it is generally believed that he is bankrupt. He left his office on Tuesday afternoon, as usual, to go to his home on the Hudson, and has not been seen since. Three attachments were obtained against him today. The amount of his liabilities is estimated at about $1,000,000. Lawton is a widower and the sole representative of the firm, his brother, who was associated with him, having died some time ago. Rufus T. Kfikland, Lawton's cashier, stated that on Tuesday Lawton withdrew all his funds from the different banks in which he had deposits and took the money with him. /Lawton before his departure destroyed all the stube of checks and papers of every kind from which any information could be secured as to the disposition of the funds and property. Krikland said that Lawton told him that he intended to leave the city by train; that he had drawn out all the money on deposit; that he was rulned; that he did not know what to do, and that he would probably commit suicide. Lawton further said that he had exhausted all his resources, and was notable to pay out any money in his possession. He left Kirkland in the world. One man who is a heavy loser said that Lawton had overdrawn all his accounts, had got all the money on his paper that he could, had sold his house

Lawton negotiated his paper through the note-brokerage firm of Titus, Mead & Co., 81 Wall street, who have out not less than 81 Wall street, who have out not less than $100,000 of Lawton's indorsements. Mead said that Lawton was in his office on Tuesday afternoon. He took some of his paper with him, and promised to send Mead a check for $10,000 on Wednesday morning. The check did not come, and inquiries for Lawton developed the fact that he was missing. Mead said that the total of Lawton's liabilities, or defalcation, might reach $300,000 and the cashier of the Third National Bank said it was between $500,000 or $400,000. At the bank it was said that Lawton had raised money wherever he could, and gone off. Kling, his attorney, estimated that Lawton got at least $300,000 in cash from banks and oh discounted paper on the day of his departure. He took the money away with him. He also may have had a good deal left of the proceeds of claims. Mr. Kling represents $350,000. It is known that he has obtained at least $250,000 on notes from various banks. No-$100,000 of Lawton's indorsements. Mead is known that he has obtained at least $250,000 on notes from various banks. Nobody could give any intelligent statement of Lawton's financial condition as a whole.
No examination has yet been made of the assets, if any there be, and though attachments have been served on everything visible, including his Jersey real estate and the Spnyten. Duyvel residence, it is commonly believed that he has transferred his interest in all such property. His liabilities, so far as known, though not yet collected in any statement, are estimated at about $1,000,000—rather less than more.

THE CROPS-REAL ESTATE-A NEW

ORANGE, March 17.—[Correspond-nce of THE TIMES.] Small grain is looking well.

Oranges are still going to market by the carloads.

Apricots, almonds and various small fruits are in blossom.

The boom in real estate in this valley is steadily on the increase.

Hens are laying nicely at present

Hens are laying nicely at present, but unfortunately eggs are down to 15 cents per dozen.

Mrs. Bradshaw, our resident artist, has a very fine class now taking lessons in painting.

House-building is being carried on in nearly every direction, and houses with us here, means homes.

The water pipe which has been lying on the ground so long on Chapman street, on the east side of Orange, has been put in place, and will probably soon be connected with the water works.

The town of McPherson now, for the first time, has a real-estate office, and McPherson, Horton & Co. will no doubt soon make business in their line lively in that locality.

The fourth lecture in the course, delivered Thursday, the 10th, by the Rev. Mr. Merriam, was very interesting, and fully up in excellence to any which had recorded it.

Our citizens are year and the course of the

Our citizens are very serry to part with the Rev. Dr. Jamison and family, who are about to leave Orange, where they have resided for four or five years. They will make a home in Los Angeles, and have purchased property there for that purpose.

and have purchased property there for that purpose.

There seems a probability that Chapman street, now a beautiful drive, will be widened by the addition of several feet on each side, and, in that event, the road from Orang to Modena, three miles, will be one of the finest avenues in the valler.

The wide-awake town of Modena had quite an addition to its population last week by the arrival of thirty settlers on one train. Business, especially in real estate, is still as brisk as ever up there. Two and one-half miles east of Modena, further up the valley and near where the large waterworks are to be constructed, Messrs. Bond, Stone & Hoyt have lad out a fine avenue, 100 feet wide.

Ore hundred and sixty feet front on Myrtle avenue was bought Friday last for $5500 and sold Wednesday for $7500 to an East Los Angeles gentleman.

An anti-saloon meeting is to be held here Friday evening. The good people of Monrovia, following the footsteps of her sister, Pasadena, are going to "sit down" on everything attempted in the saloon and gambling line.

Monrovia Hall is to have its first "show" next week—the Mirror of Ireland.

Rev. Dr. Bailey is to deliver a course an once to do business as real-estate brokers and guarantee investors.

An elegant new bank building will be built in Monrovia shortly, by a new company just formed.

Several new cottages are to be com-menced as soon as lumber is more mentiful.

Monrovia now has a daily mail ser-

LOCAL NOTELETS.
THE WILLOWS, March 17.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The Presbyterian sociable was held at the residence of J. C. Thompson last Wednes-day evening. A large number were present. Every one was sociable, and a very enjoyable evening was passed by all.

Mrs. Parris has been quite sick for the past two weeks with a very painful swelling on her foot. Mrs. J. Teal has been very sick with the measles. A number of our citizens have been making great improvements to their ranches by setting out trees and other small fruits of every description. Little Nora Richardson is slowly re-covering, under the care of Dr. Brown, from a dangerous attack of congestion of the brain.

A new subdivision is to be made to Monrovia. A syndicate of Monrovia gentlemen have purchased about $100, -900 worth of property at Duarte, on the new branch line of the Southern Pacific, and will lay out a townsite, to be called "East" Monrovia. This will be an offset to "West" Duarte.

Three lines for the Southern Pacific branch line have been run through Monrovia, in close proximity, and the right of way is being secured. The cheapest line will probably be adopted. The rails for the Monrovis street-railway are expected to arrive shortly. The next meeting of the County tic View—The Smallpox Situa Here To Date.

The members of the State Board of Health, who have been as far south as San Diego on a tour of inspection, returned to the city at 2 so clock yesterday afternoon. Dr. Tyrrell was met by a Tunsa reported past night when the following conversation fook places:

"No," and the doctor in answer to a question, "I think that Dr. Cole meant to any that smallpox cases were concealed in this city by individuals. He did not intend to say that the papers and officers concealed and the cuttings can be found. M. Neets, Received Cases. Your paper has done is duty, I be seen if the line, as far as you could know, People-who have any contactous disease and Dr. Cole believed that the raison that the disease has present from this city to other heads of the country. and Nogales I think the State will be well guarded. We will appoint an inspector at Mojave tomorrow."

"Now for that foolish attack in your silly contemporary, the Tribune. As everybody is aware who knows enough to run a newspaper, I was before the Legislature of 1884-80, and asked that body for an appropriation, just as I did during the last session. Had that body given us what we wanted, there would to be smallpox in the State today. I know then that the smallpox was raging in Mexico, and especially in Guaymas, although A. Willard, United States Consul at that place, continually reported that there were no cases, when I knew that the disease was raging there all the time. Could we have had the money the last Legislature gave us, when we first asked for it, your city would have been saved a great many thousand dollars, and the editor of the Tr bune might have been spared the humiliation of showing how foolish he can be."

The visitors will return to Los Angeles this evening, and will take the 1:30 train for the north tomorrow.

IN THE CITY

The Exact Smallpox Facts Brought Down to Date.

The smallpox situation shows no partic-ular change. The second new case in five days was discovered last night near the corner of Seventh and Los Angeles streets, and just back of the Mexican family at Sevand just back of the Mexican family at Seventh and Main in which there has been a case. It has been quarantined, and is not severe. The Mexican children heretofore quarantined at 257 New High street have been removed to the hospital for better care, one girl in the family having died yesterday of consumption.

There have been no more deaths from smallpox, and none are apprehended, as all the patients are doing extremely well. Those in the hospital are all practically well, except Mr. Fullian, and he is convalescing.

well, except Mr. Pullian, and he is convalescing.

Health Officer Hagan, backed up by all the municipal powers that be, is hard at work carrying out a general vaccination. The city has been districted, and six physicians are going from house to house, vaccinating everyone. Four of them are at work in Sonoratown, where they find a great many children unvaccinated. No resistance to the sanitary measure has yet been encountered—and if any ignorant person refuses, he will be given the full benefit of the law by Mayor Workman. Dr. Hagan has ordered 1000 fresh vaccine points daily for this work, from the best vaccine farm in the country, and is going to build a sanitary wall over which the toughest case of smallpox cannot climb.

The following official bulletin, sent to the Associated Press last night, brings the facts up to 9 o'clock;

The following official bulletin, sent to the Associated Press last night, brings the facts up to 9 o'clock:

The total number of cases to date in this city of 50,000 people is 43. Seven have died in all. Right are still in the hospital, but only one of them is sick, and he is convalescing. Two were discharged this afternoon, and seven will be in a day or two. Fourteen are quarantined in private houses, strictly guarded, and all save one are nearly well. All other cases are fully recovered. Only two new cases in five days. It is impossible for the disease to become epidemic, owing to extraordinary precautions taken by the authorities. Over 20,000 vaccinations have already been made, and vaccination; is still being systematically continued by districts, by an adequate force of competent physicians. The disease has been extremely mild, and there is no prospect of more deaths. Foolish panic caused among strangers by wild rumors has entirely died out here. People are coming, into the city by hundreds, and streets are crowded. No danger whatever to visitors.

(Signed.) WM. H. WORKMAN, Mayor.

M. HAGAN, Health Officer.

The rumors of smallpox at Pasadena are false. There have been no cases there.
